Roosevelt Library

Roosevelt Library is located at 4026 28th Ave. S. in Minneapolis and is across the street from Roosevelt High School. Roosevelt Library serves the neighborhoods of Standish, Ericsson and Hiawatha. The library opened in 1927 and has been designated an historic site by the Minneapolis Historical Preservation Commission.

Feasibility Study

A feasibility study will explore possible options for remodeling and renovation of the library. The overarching goals are to have a library that is accessible, in good physical condition and is inviting to families, children, teens and adults.

Proposed Features and Services

More public computers and wireless access

Flexible appealing spaces with comfortable seating

Increased operational efficiencies with one customer service point

Refreshed collection of books, DVDs and CDs with world language resources

Service to the Community

Library service will continue at the current Roosevelt Library as planning moves forward. The public will be updated as the project progresses.
